School Must Hire Back Teacher Charles Kahan

Back Pay Ordered By Hearing Officer

Helix High Schol teacher-coach Charles Kahan, who was arrested in Arizona on marijuana smuggling charges, tried and acquitted, then dismissed by the Grossmont High School District, was ordered re-instated with back pay Tuesday.

Kahan, son of a Lemon Grove delicatessen operator, was arrested in Arizona by local officials while he was on sick leave from his teaching post in October, 1971. He was reportedly in a pickup truck with two other men and about 1,000 pounds of marijuana.

He was indicted in an Arizona Court November 17, 1971, but charges were dropped when prosecutors refused to name an informant in the case.

When he was indicted, the board suspended him, but reinstated him later after charges were dropped.

In November of 1972, Kahan was again indicted in the same case, this time by federal officials, and was again suspended by the district board of trustees.

The defendant won a directed acquittal from U. S. District Court Judge Walter Craig, but this time the district failed to reinstate him to his teaching job and sent him a notice of dismissal instead.

Kahan appealed the decision to the California Commission on Professional Compentency ,and Tuesday won a decision from chief hearing officer John Willd, who said that the district could not dismiss Kahan in light of the 1972 reinstatement.

Kevin McInerney, Kahan's attorney in the case, indicated the the district has five days to reinstate his client with back pay.

The board could also appeal the decision, according to county counsel Robert Rice, who has been handling the case for the district, but the board of trustees is not expected to meet again until Tuesday.

During his suspension, Kahan has been working toward his masters degree at Azusa Pacific College and working in his father's Lemon Grove store.

Transfer Of Lots To LG District OK'd

The Lemon Grove School District Board of Trustees met Tuesday night and approved the transfer of 11 homes into the district, talked about the vision screening program, approved a data processing agreement with the Grossmont Union High School, and heard a report on a crosswalk situation near Palm Junior High.

The property transfer involves 11 lots in the Monterey Heights area which were thought by their purchasers to be in the Lemon Grove School District, although they are actually in the San Diego City Schools.

The purchasers were misinformed by the developer, who presented a letter from the state department of real estate indicating that the lots were in Lemon Grove. The letter was in error, according to Robert Sutton, District Superintendent.

The board approved the transfer on the basis of the error. The move must be approved by the San Diego City Schools before taking effect.

Vision Screening

Trustees also talked about and approved a vision screening program sponsored by the Lemon Grove Lions Club.

Under the program, an optometist or ophthamologist administers a vision test to all new students, utilizing a modified clinical technique, which is thought to be better than tests used by the schools in the past.

Bob Sutton reported to the board that the program had been operated smoothly for the past couple of years. The test is at no cost to the district.

The data processing agreement between the district and the Grossmont Union High School Ditrict was continued by trustees, although it was reported that there will be a sizeable decrease in the amount of needed services this year.

Fewer Services

The district will use fewer services this year because state tests will be for the first time scored by the state, eliminating the need for contracting for the computer processing locally.

Sutton reported to the board on a crosswalk situation near Palm Junior High. The crosswalk had previously been located at Washington and Palm, but was moved to Golden and Palm after recent road work was completed in the area.

Sutton told the board that the move had been because of safety reasons, cited by the county engineer. Many parents disagreed with the move, indicating that they would prefer that their children cross Palm at the former location, although the street is four lanes wide at that point and the speed limit is 40 miles per hour.

Reduced Speed

The new location is where traffic is changed from four to two lanes and the speed limit is reduced to 25 mph for the school zone.

In other action, trustees approved many routine and beginning - of - the - year items such as enrollment reports, operating policies, status reports, and resolutions.

One other item of note was the approval of the use of school facilities by the Lemon Grove Girls Softball League.

The Girls Softball League is different from Bobby Sox Softball, which has used the facilities at Lemon Grove Junior High for several years, although most of the girls and parents have been involved in Bobby Sox.

Trustees OK'd the move, with the reminder that the League talke all due caution as to the care of public property. There was no mention of conflict with the Bobby Sox, as the new league will operate on a different schedule.

The DIMMER VIEW

Goodbye to the Corner Gas Pump

It takes no expertise to understand that food prices have been manipulated beyond the reach of a growing army of hungry Americans and that closed gasoline pumps, and in some cases, closed gasoline stations is the fruit of threats of gasoline producers that there would be auto fuel shortages if price controls were kept on.

If this condition changes, it will be at the expense of the wage earner. Because food and autos take a higher proportion of the wage-earners income than those who are wealthy, it is the wage earner who will suffer.

But this is about gasoline and the coming higher costs.

Most people believe that producers are also using the auto fuel crunch to drive independent dealers out of business. Why shouldn't they? It is no more immoral to force the little competitor out than it was for bureaucrats to give great lots of wheat to Russia for so little return that the action became the missile that launched runaway food cost activity by producers, distributors and retailers.

Because gasoline producers are fewer, it would be simpler for them to control prices via controlling distribution.

So some bureaus inferred that the shortage was a producers' conspiracy. But with Watergate headlined daily, bureaus thought it prudent not to call the kettle black. So the producers' pressure stayed on.

If there is a conspiracy, it is as unnecessary as it is high-handed because it is only a matter of time before the small independent station will be as rare as lobsters in San Diego Bay.

An argument is given by major gasoline firms that small stations just can't make it when they pump less than 30,000 gallons a month. Most of the stations in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley pump less than that. Using 30,000 gallons as the "break even" point, the majors will start to consolidate most of the small stations they control into large, multi-pump facilities.

These will be a far cry from even the largest ones in use today. Prediction is that there will be far fewer installations but with much higher volumes — 200,000 gallons or more a month. All transactions will be handled remotely with one attendant controlling all fueling and payments electronically. A new automated vapor-tight bottom-loading fuel dispensing system will be put into use, and a total vapor recovery system will be used throughout the station area.

What this means is a division of existing service station functions. Most stations will feature self-service and many will operate by inserting a credit card or cash into a device which then activates the fuel. You'll wipe your own windshield and check your own tires and oil. This will eliminate the need for a staff of attendants at a relatively high labor cost. Tires, batteries, oil, lubes, engine tune-up and other features now handled by service stations will be shifted to centrally located service centers which feature sales and service accessories.

These central establishments, designed for high volume and maximum efficiency, will be staffed by skilled specialists, probably licensed or certified by some governmental bureau.

The move from service station to fuel retailer is also being stimulated by such mass merchandisers as Sears, Roebuck, J. C. Penney and others. These chains have already garnered more than 75% of the tire battery and additive business, once considered a major source of profit for station operators, it is said.

If it means nothing else, you'll be using more fuel to get to the nearest fuel station — and possibly paying more for fuel and getting no service at all.

Anxious Reader:

To follow your logic the penalty for embezzling more than a million dollars would be death.

Candid Camera's Allen Funt's accountant committed suicide after he embezzled $1.2 million but on the other hand a fellow in San Diego served three months for stealing a half-dollar's worth of cheese when he was hungry. And UPI reports this week that a man was arrested in Phoenix for stealing a seven cent bell pepper.

In this answer there may be the agreement that the penalty for stealing from the rich is greater than stealing from the poor.

Yoga Class Starts Tonight

One of Grossmont College's most popular continuing education courses will be offered for the third time when a class in Hatha Yoga commences tonight in room 408 of the Physical Education Department.

The seven-session course, devoted to this ancient method of physical discipline, will be offered at 7:15 each Thursday evening.

According to Sherri Weaver who will again serve as instructor for the beginners class in Hatha Yoga, participants will have the opportunity to learn to breathe, relax, improve concentration, develop mental and physical awareness as well as obtain release from nervous stress and stiffness.

The public is invited to enroll in the special continuing education course. A non-refundable registration fee of $3 will be charged. Prospective participants are urged to wear loose clothing or leotards and eat lightly before each class.

Geothermal Potential Is Booklet Topic

California's geothermal resources, their availability and potential use as an energy source, are the subject of a new pamphlet released this week by the State Division of Oil and Gas.

The publication, "Geothermal Energy in California," shows the state's known geothermal areas and uses photographs to explain some of the technical operations of a geothermal field.

Geothermal heat, according to the pamphlet, is believed to originate from radioactive decay deep within the earth. This heat in turn, transforms subterranean waters into steam or hot water that can be used to generate power.

At present, "The Geysers" geothermal field in the northeast corner of Sonoma county, is the only area in the United States where geothermal energy is being harnessed. However, an undeveloped, but potentially important geothermal field is in the Salton sea area.

Pedestrians Struck in Broadway Crosswalk

Two local persons sustained severe injuries last week when they were struck by a car as they were crossing Broadway in Lemon Grove.

Taken to Grossmont Hospital were Axel Holmstrom, 72, of 1942 Eldora, Lemon Grove, and Maudie Mullins, 55, of 8805 Kelburn st., Spring Valley.

According to reports from the Highway Patrol, the two victims were crossing the street in a crosswalk, 625 feet east of Imperial ave. Eastbound cars in the right lane had stopped for the pedertrians but as they stepped from behind the stopped cars, another eastbound vehicle in the left lane, struck them.

Driver of the vehicle was David Partain, 44, of El Cajon. He wasn't cited.

Stop For Flashing Lights On Buses

"When the red lights on top of a school bus are flashing, you must not pass it, whether you are approaching from the front or the rear," according to Joe Hargraves, transportation chief for the Grossmont Union High School District.

"Most people are not aware of this," Hargraves said, adding "This creates a real safety problem because people going the opposite direction don't always stop."

Last year the high school buses drove 650,000 miles without an accident or an injury to a student. In the past two years, the only injury which occurred happened when a girl dashing across the street to catch a bus was struck by a car approaching from the opposite direction, Hargraves said.

"I'm sure the driver saw the flashing lights, but he just wasn't aware that he supposed to stop if he was on the other side of the road," he said.

The problem arises in part, Hargraves said, because the words "stop when lights are flashing" are printed only on the rear of the buses. However, the only time a driver is permitted to turn on the flashing lights is at a stop where students must cross the road, which means they cross both lanes of traffic.

Another problem arises because the lights on the buses are placed "above the normal level of vision" at the top of the bus. "It is good practice for a driver approaching a stopped school bus to glance up at the roof of the bus," Hargraves said.

The lights, which are placed at the rear and at the front of all school buses, flash in an alternating pattern, first one and then the other, and are easily distinguishable from the normal stop lights, he said.

At least 60 violations are recorded each year, Hargraves said. Drivers are instructed to take down the license number and description of violators, and the information is turned over to the Highway Patrol. Most receive tickets.

With the opening of school Tuesday, the high school district has 34 buses on the road. The combined total of all school districts in the Heartland area will be well over 100.

CPO Transportation Study Gets $422,000

The State Transportation Board last week allocated $422,000 to the San Diego Comprehensive Planning Organization.

Board Chairman Dick Brown, El Cajon, said the San Diego C.P.O. will use the grant to finance transportation studies of all modes of transportation, including mass transit in urban areas.

According to Brown, the grant was part of $2,028,000 which the State Transportation Board this year will divide among 41 regional transportation planning agencies. The allocation to San Diego C.P.O. is the second largest amount in the state. The largest amount, $612,000, was approved last month and went to the Southern California Association of Governments.

The monies were derived both from the state general fund and the state gasoline tax. They are the first ever to be disbursed by the State Transportation Board for regional transportation planning.

Brown said grant funds became available to the Board through the 1972 legislation which authorized the formation of the State Department of Transportation. The amount of each grant was based on recommendations made by the new Department and the scope of each regional agency's planning program.

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — Byron Patrick Schiller, a contractor of 7130 Waite dr., Lemon Grove, who pleaded "no contest" to a charge of receiving stolen property was fined $300 and put on three year's probation.

Officers, following a trail of sales of stolen items, reportedly found more than $2,000 of stolen office equipment in his home office.

Schiller told officers he had bought the equipment from a man whose last name he did not know.

The case was adjudicated a misdemeanor when Schiller made his plea. Judge William T. Low also ordered restitution of $350 to two victims.

He was long classed as a millionaire and is reported to have developed projects valued at more than a billion dollars.

Pump Would Have No Bad Effects, Says Helix Board

A new, larger Dictionary Hill pumping station has been declared to have no significant environmental effects by the Helix Water District Board of Directors.

The decision was based on a recommendation from Joseph E. Gray, the District's environmental analyst, who stated the new plant would improve domestic and fire service to existing consumers in this system.

"Zoning in parts of this area has been changed from R-1 to R-2 and (P) R-2, allowing for higher density development. Development which has already taken place has created a much greater demand on the water facilities," Gray stated in his report.

The $73,000 above-ground station will be located at the northwest corner of Cordoba and Dolores sts., Spring Valley, and will be surrounded by a five-foot chain link fence. The area will be professionally landscaped, with much of the site being left in its natural state.

"Noise and dust from construction may be bothersome for a time," Gray said, "but work should be completed within 90 days, and no problems are anticipated after that."

COMMENDED FOR EXCELLENCE — Lemon Grove resident and Navy employee Bruno J. Leonesio, of 7602 Circle dr., points out the various kinds of installation during work in progress inside bldg. 50 at the Navy Fleet Anti-Submarine Warfare School on San Diego's Harbor Drive.

Lemon Grove Man Earns Navy Superior Performance Award

Lemon Grove resident Bruno J. Leonesio of 7602 Circle dr., and employed as Maintenance Dept., Foreman Electrician with the San Diego Navy Public Works Center aboard the Naval Station, has been commended by the Navy and presented the Navy's Sustained Superior Performance cash award.

He was singled out for "exceptional performance" concerning duties as on-site supervisor involving a $180,000 building rehabilitation project at the Navy Fleet Anti-Submarine Warfare School on San Diego's Harbor dr. Work accomplishment enompassed extensive structural and mechanical alterations and installations in the building.

"Through Leonesio's efforts, his display of fine leadership, coordination and direction, the job was completed successfully with a savings of about $10,000," according to the citation accompanying the cash award.

But assignment to this project did not relieve Leonesio of his other responsibilities as head of the PWC Electrical Shop. While directing the ASW building rehabilitation project he's credited with keeping abreast of other projects in progress concerning his men and being available to help resolve problems requiring his attention.

An example of other projects involved layout and installation of the conduits, transformers and associated equipment at the new transformer pad installed at the Balboa Naval Hospital. This job had a tight completion date and high command interest, according to a PWC spokesman.

Director of the PWC Maintenance Dept. Recurring Work Div., Bill Labozzetta of San Diego explained Leonesio's "work excellence performance."

"Although Leonesio received no additional pay concerning what amounts to a temporary promotion during this period, his outstanding efforts, accurate scheduling of work, coordination of fine leadership contributed to the completion of a number of critical Navy jobs reflecting the highest degree of efficiency and workmanship.

"For his consistently fine performance and truly superior accomplishments Leonesio has been awarded the Navy's Sustained Superior Performance cash award," Labozzatta commented.

Meal Tickets Now Sold at High Schools

At a time when food costs for the average household are soaring daily, the local high schools will offer a hot lunch for the same price as last year, according to Bob Beaudoin, Supervisor of Food Services for the Grossmont Union High School District.

The price will be 55 cents for the Type A lunch, which includes a hot entree, vegetables, bread and butter, dessert, and milk, Beaudoin said. He said that hot lunches are served on all high school campuses, even those that don't have an actual "sit down" cafeteria.

New this year will be the use of pre-paid meal tickets to speed up service by cutting down on the handling of money in the lunch line. Students will be able to purchase the tickets in advance, or buy them on a daily basis, prior to getting in the serving line, according to Beaudoin.

"We think this will be a conveience to families, and it will help us improve our services," he said. A student who doesn't wish to purchase meal tickets in advance can buy them on a daily basis. "For example, a kid could buy his ticket in the morning, when he stops at the cafeteria for a cup of hot chocolate. Then, at lunch, he just goes through the line," Beaudoin explained.

The tickets are available at the cafeteria at each school. The schools will also offer a la carte items such as milk, hamburgers, and fruit, to compliment a lunch brought from home.

Before housewives swamp Beaudoin to ask him to do their family shopping for them, they should be forewarned that he is not too confident of how long Food Services will be able to stick to last year's price.

"We might have to go back to the Governing Board befor the end of the year and ask for a price increase," Beaudoin said, adding, "but I hope we don't."

Tijuana Country Club Fashion Show Scene

E.S.P. — School is back in session at local elementary and high schools, and thanks to the Early September Programming concept at Mt. Miguel, there is less red tape this week than in years past. Students did most of their "mad rushing" before the school started this year, selecting classes and ironing out schedules. The college-type approach has left counselors with a bit more time to handle their traditionally heavy first-week load. In photo, students sign up for an English class. (Vince Broesch photo)

'Back to School Week' Marks Time of Work For CAC's

This is back-to-school week and while most housewives and local businessmen are breathing sighs of relief that "the kids are back in school," many local citizens are preparing for a year of increased involvement with the schools.

These people are members of the Citizens' Advisory Councils which were elected in each high school attendance zone last year to help the local principal tailor his school program to fit the needs of its particular community. As elected representatives, their role is to reflect the feelings of the citizens of the community in discussions with the principal about current school problems or new directions in education.

The Citizens' Advisory Councils were established for the first time last year in Grossmont District High Schools in an effort to bring more citizen input into the school system. Although principals have always enjoyed close relationships with their parent-teacher association the new CAC's are seen as a valuable addition to the school system because they bring input from citizens who do not have children in the school at the present time, as well as input from parents.

The representatives to each CAC were selected by an area-wide election held in each school enrollment zone, and the guidelines for each election were such to guarantee that the local CAC represents a true cross-section of the community at large.

During the coming year principals will be working with their CAC's to determine if the school system is meeting the needs of the community, what aspects of the school program should be maintained and which elements could be improved, and new directions for the school. As a groundwork for these discussions, the principal and the CAC will be working with the list of school goals which were developed from the community conferences which were held last spring.

At each community conference, a large number of citizens from all walks of life participated in a one-day conference at which they were asked to state their gripes and also their hopes for the school system. The participants were not asked to determine the feasibility of accomplishing the goals, but rather were asked only to state honestly their feelings about the schools.

Following each community conference, CAC members compiled hundreds of suggestions which were received into groups of similar statements. For each group of statements they wrote a single goal statement which outlined what it was the people were asking. The goal statements were then placed in order of priority determined by the number of individual comments which had gone into each goal statement and also by the numerical ranking of priority which had been placed on each comment by the participants in the original community conference.

Each high school CAC is now working with the principals to develop methods of accomplishing the local school goals. While many of the goals can be accomplished at the local level, some of them would require increased funding or a change in curriculum or policy at the district level. For this reason the local goals were submitted to a district-wide goal-setting committee which is composed of representatives from each local CAC. This committee is currently compiling a list of goals and objectives for the Grossmont High School District by combining the individual goal statements from each of the eight high schools.

Auditions To Fill Positions With Orchestra

Auditions will be held through Saturday for limited openings in the San Diego Civic Youth Orchestra. The first full rehearsals are scheduled for 9 a.m., September 15 in the music building of Grossmont College.

The Civic Youth Orchestra actually consists of two full orchestras, one for San Diego County's most advanced and talented young instrumentalists; this orchestra being conducted by Robert Emile, concertmaster of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra. The other orchestra, which is conducted by Charles MacLeod, serves as beginning training for discipline necessary for symphony orchestra personnel.

Auditions are being arranged by Mrs. Beulah Henderson and Mrs. Gwen Cornell. Applicants should call either 463-8401 or 4448-7719.

Orchestra II, which is the group for less experienced players, will be accepting a larger number of musicians this year due to a new organizational arrangement. The string sections will be conducted by Mrs. Gloria Hill, while MacLeod will direct the wind ensemble.

Biomedical Program Is Accredited

Grossmont College has received notification from the nationally recognized Engineers Council for Professional Development that its associate degree Biomedical Technology Program has been awarded a two-year extension of its accreditation by that group.

The college, first awarded a four-year accreditation in September 1971, became the first community college in the United States to be awarded accreditation for an associate dtgree Biomedical Technology Program.

One of the most successful programs offered by Grossmont College, the Biomedical Technology Program has increased its scope and number of students enrolled each year since its inception. Graduates of the program are currently employed as research technicians, cardio pulmonary technicians, equipment repair technicians and biomedical monitoring technicians.

In commenting on the extension of accreditation, Grossmont College President Erv F. Metzgar said: "It is a distinct honor and a tribute to our instructional staff to be awarded this accreditation extension for the Biomedical Technology Program. The program attracts students from all age groups, ethnic backgrounds and educational levels. The student roster includes both men and women with many of the men in the program ex-hospital corpsmen or medics with combat military service.

"Students are enrolled in a rigorous educational program that includes chemistry, physiology, mathematics, physics and electronics, as well as courses in instrumentation, physiological measurements, cardio pulmonary and cardio vascular techniques. Classroom study is augmented by clinical experience in area hospitals to provide the students with on-the-job exposure in a variety of actual situations."

The new accreditation scheduled to expire in 1977 for the college's Biomedical Technology Program, is subject to annual review by the ECPD.

HEALTHY VIEW — Five year old Chrisy Marsh, due to enter kindergarten at Mt. Vernon school in Lemon Grove, was one of several hundred youngsters who had their vision tested Saturday during a special free clinic at the Mission Valley Shopping Center. The vision screening was performed as part of the San Diego County Optometric Society's annual observance of back-to-school month. Dr. Robert Knauer, Lemon Grove optometrist and president-elect of the society, gave Chrisy her test both with and without her glasses, and in pointing out the importance of an annual vision check for all school children, he stated that four out of ten grade school children are visually handicapped for adequate school achievement.

Special New Classes To Aid Asthmatics

Games, special activities and exercises will soon be lessening the breathing problems of asthmatic children who sign up for physical conditioning classes to be held at California State University, San Diego this fall.

Qualified professionals will instruct the children in physical education programs designed to improve their chronic condition.

Asthmatic children between the ages of six and 16 are eligible for the classes upon recommendation from a physician.

In conjunction with the physical conditioning classes for the children, their parents will have the opportunity to attend evening informational sessions at which an allergist, physical education specialist, school nurse and psychiatrist will speak on methods for bettering the parents' ability to deal with their children's breathing problems.

The cost for the entire program is $20 per child, but no child will be turned away because of the family's inability to afford this fee.

Chargers Seek Scalp Of Wash. Redskins In Season's Opener

Football starts this week for the Chargers.

Coach Harlan Svare said so.

He says the unpleasantness of the pre-season is past and that all eyes are on the future. The team is going to Washington this week to win, he says. Charger owner Gene Klein promised the record-membership Charger Backers last week the NFC championship.

So much for optimism. Now for the problem at hand.

In the R.F.K. Stadium Sunday at 10 a.m. PC time before a capacity crowd of 53,041, Svare, Klein and Co. will be the underdog against the National Conference champion Redskins.

Redskin Coach George Allen who believes there is no tomorrow — only today, will give the ever-changing Charges with their 1-5 record, a challenging goal (5-1) to shoot at.

Johnny Unitas will lead Chargers against the Washington Redskins — the team which allowed two of its last three opponents only three points each.

And Mike Garrett will be in duel with Larry Bown, both of whom rushed for more than 1,000 yards during the past two years.

Garrett's 1,031 yards last year raised his 7-year career total to 5,014. Brown won the NFC rushing title with 1,216 yards and the "Most Valuable Player" honors last year.

The Charger-Redskins game will be telecast Sunday over KGTV-10 with Curt Gowdy and Al DeRogatis. The Charger network will carry it over KDEO radio.

The Chargers pre-season record: Beat Philadelphia 24-17; lost to: N.Y. Giants, 28-3; St. Louis, 17-13; San Francisco, 19-7; Los Angeles, 30-17, and Minnesota, 24-16. The last, against Minnesota, was the more elegant effort of the season.

Next week the Chargers open their home season against O. J. Simpson, Dennis Shaw and the Buffalo Bills at the San Diego Stadium at 1 p.m. on September 23.

PREP SEASON OPENS — Tomorrow night's Grossmont League Football Carnival will be held at Aztec Bowl as a season opener for all eight league teams. Grossmont and El Cajon will open the first quarter, with El Capitan and Monte Vista battling in the second period. In the third quarter, Mt. Miguel and El Capitan will battle it out, and Granite Hills and Helix will close the game. The carny, which officially open the prep grid-season for the league, gives each team a chance to gauge its abilities. Tickets are $1.50.

McIntyre Seizes Cajon Speedway Points Lead

Pat McIntyre, of Spring Valley, moved into first place in the El Cajon Stock Car Racing Association point standings last week by taking third place in the 30-lap main event.

McIntyre, who has been in second place for most of the year, seized the point lead with steady driving as former leader John Dineen made a

McIntyre came from the 17th position to take third place in the race, good for 100 points for the finish and 75 points for passing, moving the Spring Valley driver 60 points ahead of Dineen. Third place Jim Hitt, who also watched the finish from the infield, is 350 points behind.

With four races left in the season, McIntyre must hold on to the slim margin to become the third two-time points champion. Also the top driver last year, he could be the first driver to win back-to-back championships.

In the winners' circle last week for the second time in a row was John Borneman, of El Cajon, who has now won four main events this year. Borneman came from the tenth starting position to grab the lead on the sixth lap.

Borneman then built a big lead over the field before Mark Stahl jumped out of the pack with about six laps to go to give chase. He ran out of laps however, and had to settle for second, as McIntyre finished a game third, Ted Kallos, of Spring Valley took fourth, and San Diegan Ron Esau finished in the fifth position.

Another factor that will help McIntyre in his bid for the point championship is John Dineen's car, which has apparently slowed down. Dineen's string of six consecutive weeks of fastest qualifying time was broken last week by Gary Crossland, of Lakeside.

Dineen has held on to his points lead despite having only one main event victory largely by earning volumes of passing points. By qualifying fast, Dineen is put in the back of the pack to start the race, giving him more cars to pass and more points to earn.

McIntyre, meanwhile, has his car running as fast as ever and last week was the fourth fastest qualifier.

The battle for the point lead will resume Saturday night as Dineen and McIntyre, as well as about 70 other cars begin qualifying runs at 6:30 p.m. The first race of the night starts at 8 p.m.

Monte Vista The Dark Horse

Mt. Miguel, Granite Hills To Vie For Grossmont Loop Title

By John Nicholson

Ask eight football coaches which team is the favorite in the Grossmont League this year and you'll get seven answers that have something to do with Mt. Miguel. The eighth coach is Dwight Morris, of Mt. Miguel, who wants to know "how that rumor got started".

Morris, who turned Mt. Miguel around after the Matadors were smothered at the bottom of the standings three years ago, admits that Mt. Miguel is the team to beat this season, but is quick to point out that the team does not have a great number of returning athletes.

He looks for tough games with Granite Hills October 19, and Monte Vista at the end of the season. Grossmont also figures in with his dope sheet on the rest of the league.

On paper, Granite Hills looks even better than Mt. Miguel, with ten starters back from last year's 7-2 team. While the big name for the Eagles is Larry Downs, a halfback who rushed for over 1,000 yards last year, most of the experience for the Eagles is in the lines.

Mt. Miguel, on the other hand, has only eight returning lettermen, but they are all starters, and Dwight Morris seems to have one in every key position, along with some exciting newcomers.

Balanced Attack

Granite Hills, always with a balanced attack, admits that the team will rely heavily on Downs and the run, but the team will see a lot of passing, also.

Mt. Miguel for the past two years has relied almost solely on the rushing play, with an occasional pass to keep the opposing team on its toes.

With Senior Jess Jenner back for his third year, and some good talent in the receiving category, Mt. Miguel will see a lot more passing this season than in years bygone.

Run Still Good

That doesn't mean that the running play will be forgotten though, as Morris is a firm believer in ball control football. And he has Tom Madigan back as a fullback. Madigan is also a proven performer in the quarterback position, and the Matadors may use Jenner occasionally as a receiver or halfback with Madigan calling the signals.

Defensively, both Granite Hills and Mt. Miguel are improved over last year. The Eagles last year seemed to be all offense, while Mt. Miguel seemed all defense, in fact almost so good on defensive action that this year could be little better. Both teams are better balanced.

Dark Horse

While Mt. Miguel and Granite Hills size one another up for the coming year, the dark horse role this season must go to Monte Vista, where coach Stan Davies is preparing a young but talented team for the new season.

Making the varsity team this year will be a crew of youngsters that were undefeated in their freshman year and lost only two games as a jayvee squad. Davies figures to use many of his juniors this season, and mixed with a few varsity veterans, the Monarchs can look to their first winning season in many years.

Davies has his entire defensive line back, making his a tough team to battle up the middle, and with a talented defensive backfield, a rough team to do anything against.

Veteran quarterback Steve Perdue is back and he'll command a ball control attack with a lot of rushing plays. If the Monarchs are weak anywhere, it has to be in the receiving category, with only Mich Bonilla as a proven pass catcher.

All eight teams will see action in tomorrow night's Grossmont Football Carnival at Aztec Bowl. Once that is out of the way, it'll be easier to see which teams will be winners, but for now, let's try these as proposed standings:

Mt. Miguel	7-0
Granite Hills	6-1
Monte Vista	5-2
Grossmont	5-2
El Capitan	2-5
Santana	2-5
Helix	1-6
El Cajon	0-7

Drawing For Rose Bowl Tickets Due

A public sale of tickets for the 1974 Rose Bowl Game will be conducted by the Tournament of Roses in mid-October in cooperation with the participating conferences, the Big 10 and Pacific 8.

Interested persons should send post cards—not letters—to Rose Bowl, Bin 1800, Pasadena, Calif. 91109. Each post card must be identified by the sender's name and address. Letters will not be accepted.

Cards may be sent in during the month from September 15 until Otober 15. Post cards mailed after the latter date will be too late for the drawing.

Shortly after the closing date, officials of the Tournament of Roses and the two conferences will conduct the drawing at Tournament House in Pasadena to determine who will have the opportunity of purchasing two tickets to the 60th Annual Rose Bowl Game on January 1, 1974.

A total of 1,750 cards will be selected at random and the senders of each card drawn will be sent a ticket application form. Money should not be sent until this form is received even though there may be a public announcement of the names drawn.

This will be the only public sale of Rose Bowl tickets. The balance of the tickets will be the two schools participating in the post-season clash in Pasadena.

Three 10-Rounders on Card At Coliseum Friday Night

Now that the Norton-Ali fight is over, fight fans may turn attention to the important matters at hand—at the New Coliseum—where a classy card has been gathered by promoter Mickie Davies.

Not that the Norton-Ali affair wasn't exciting. It was. The 5,100 or so at the Arena, and 2,735 at Golden Hall in the Community Concourse, had to wait for the judges' cards to know the winner. The crowd at the Arena was partisan to Ali by a wide noise-making majority.

Ali won a split decision but several sports writers scored it a draw. The ring officials' decision prevailed, however.

But back to the business at hand — the Coliseum's card. There are three 10-rounders.

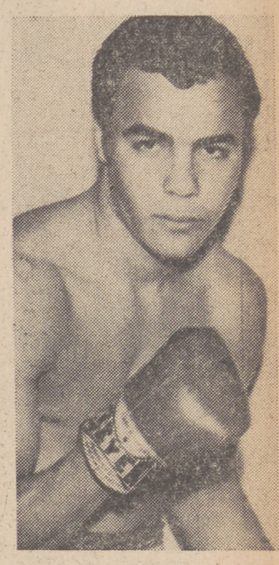
In two of them is an invasion from the Philippines, a country noted for capable box-fighters.

In a 10-round featherweight battle, Dommy Cruz, (9-2) of Manila, meets Valente Vera, a well-regarded Tijuanan (25-2) who has recorded 23 ko's.

In another 10-round featherweight, another Filipino, Ad Zapanta, also from Manila (12-2-1—7 ko's) faces Joe Valdez, Tijuana (6-6).

But most attention will be on the junior middleweight scrap, a 10-rounder which pits Renato Garcia (16-0) of Santiago, Chile, against Marco Gerardo (25-8) of San Diego. Garcia has recorded 10 ko's; Gerardo 16.

Johnny Villaflor, who brought the two Filipino fighters to San Diego has great hopes for them. Zapata, he says, is a brawler; Cruz is a boxer. Villaflor has trained such ring notables as middleweight champ Ceferino Garcia as well as bantamweight champions Joe Becerra and Raton Macias, and others.



GARCIA

The New Coliseum, 13th and E streets, will get its card under way at 8 p.m. Friday.

Duck Season Slated For Oct. Opening

San Diego County duck hunters were advised to warn their spouses early of possible "temporary widowhood," since the 1973-74 waterfowl hunting season in southern California is scarcely a month away.

The alert was issued by Ed Waldman, chairman of the San Diego Ducks Unlimited chapter, who also heads a 60-man steering committee planning the 30th annual San Diego DU fund-raising party Oct. 17 at the Town and Country Convention Center in Mission Valley.

San Diegans will again enjoy a split 93-day duck season, but the bag and possession limits are reduced by one bird to six and six. First half of the season will run from Oct. 13 through Nov. 23, while the windup shoot will extend from Dec. 1 through Jan. 20. The daily bag and possession limit on canvasbacks has been restored, and one bird is permitted this year.

In the southern zone, Canada geese may be taken from Oct. 27 through Nov. 23, and from Dec. 1 through Jan. 6. In southern California, the limit is six geese per day, six in possession, but no more than two Canada geese may be bagged. Only one Rooss' goose is permitted. Black sea brant may be hunted from Jan. 19 through Feb. 20, with a daily bag limit of four and total possession of eight.

Waldman invited all area hunters and non-hunters to attend the upcoming San Diego DU dinner party with their spouses and families. Tickets are available through local DU committeemen and local sporting goods stores.

Health Quacks Topic in 'Buyer Aware' Lecture

"How Health Quacks Get $18,000,000 in California Every Year," is the title of the second program in the "Buyer Aware" series presented by the San Diego County Library at 1:30 p.m., September 19 in the Community Hall at College Grove Shopping Center.

Edith Canfield, associated with San Diego County's Health Department for nearly 10 years, is presently engaged in working with the county's senior population to protect them from medical quackery. She is a member of the California Attorney General's Consumer Information and Protection committee and is coordinator for the senior citizens health education program.

In her presentation, Ms. Canfield will discuss drugs that don't cure, health food that doesn't make you healthy and weight reduction schemes that are both ineffective and expensive.

The public is invited to attend the afternoon program and other programs in the "Buyers Aware" series that will be devoted to additional efforts toward consumer protection. There is no charge for admission.

Beginner Rally Series Slated at College Grove

"Discover America—Get Lost on a Rally" is more than just a funny bumper sticker to area residents who want to learn more about the weekend sport of car rallying. It is also the title of a beginner rally series, being sponsored locally by the San Diego Region of the Sports Car Club of America.

Next beginners' rally is Sunday in the College Grove Center parking lot. The public is invited to come try a rally, and bring the family, said Jim Roiger, rally organizer for the club. The monthly event begins at 11:30 a.m., with the first car out at 12:01 p.m. Sports cars are not mandatory, explained Roiger, the family station wagon or sedan can be just as much fun. Charge is $2 per car for the event.

Designed especially for the novice, the rally series gives the entrants a chance to learn rallying in a low-pressure competition, while touring the countryside on a Sunday afternoon. Rallying has been described as a "drive to grandma's house, the problems being that you don't know where she lives and you don't know how to get there, but you've got to arrive exactly on time!"

Each team—driver and navigator— is handed the same set of instructions which directs them onto a given course. The only technical equipment necessary is a watch and a pen.

Future rallies in the series will be held the Sundays of October 21, November 25, and December 23, at the same location. For further information, contact Lemon Grove residents Joe or Helen Hobbs, 463-1562.

Toreros Open Season

The optimism of fall practice sessions fades into the realities of an eleven-game season Saturday night when the University of San Diego hosts powerful University of California Riverside.

Kickoff time for the Toreros' 1973 home opener is 7:30 p.m. in the USD stadium with radio station KSDO (1130) handling the broadcast.

Head coach Andy Vinci, starting his second year at USD. will display a multiple set offense complemented by the quarterbacking of Bob Dulich and the running of Sammy Croom and Andy Sanchez.

A strong defensive unit is bigger and faster than a 1972 group that finished tenth nationally in rushing defense but will be facing a tougher schedule.

The Toreros meet a Riverside team that compiled a 9-1 won-lost record last season, including a 34-14 defeat of USD. The highlanders return 31 players, and, are prime candidates to repeat as C.C. A.A. champions.

Jesse Freitas Seen as Aztec's 'Best Ever' Qb

With the 1973 football opener less than two weeks away for San Diego State, one thing has become perfectly clear—Jesse Freitas should be one of the top collegiate quarterbacks in the nation this season.

The Aztecs scrimmaged twice last week in preparation for the season opener against Utah State September 22 in Logan, Utah and Freitas was the big man in both scrimmages. Wednesday night, in a scrimmage dominated by the defense, Freitas hit 8 of 12 passes and then came back Friday afternoon to connect on 17 of 25 and had three dropped.

"I honestly think he could end up the best quarterback San Diego State's ever had," said Aztec Coach Claude Gilbert. "As it stands now Jesse will call his own plays this season. He has mastered our new Veer offense so well he sometimes explains things to me."

Freshman quarterback Scott Brisbin from Patrick Henry High School in San Diego may have established himself as the No. 3 man, hitting both his passes in Friday's scrimmage, including a 65-yard bomb to Ron Thomas. Dick Clyde remains the No. 2 quarterback with Bob Klatt battling Brisbin for No. 3.

NEW OFFICES — Don Minnick, left, former Lemon Grove resident, is back in the building trade as he and his partner Stora Harris, of Lemon Grove, finish framing a three-office complex at 7912 Lester ave., Lemon Grove. The project, which will be finished next month, will include three new offices, complete with carpeting, drapes, air conditioning, and plenty of parking. The two men are doing the construction themselves so it'll be "built to the highest standards available", Minnick said.

Scholarship Applications Ready at J. Stull's Office

Senator John Stull has announced that applications for 1973-74 State Scholarship grants are available from his office, 4817 Palm ave., Suite B, La Mesa.

"Interested students should contact my office as soon as possible because the deadline for submitting the applications is November 20th," Stull said.

"There are certain requirements for eligibility as a State Scholar," Stull continued. "An award winner must:

1. Make formal application for a State Scholarship. (Application to include grade point average.)

2. Take the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board and arrange for submittal of a score report to be mailed to the Commission.

3. Demonstrate high moral character, good citizenship and dedication to American ideals.

4. Submit a Parents' Confidential Statement and show a need for monetary assistance at the college of his choice. (The financial status of parents is the primary consideration in determining financial eligibility. Students whose parents are, as a result of a Commission evaluation considered financially able to meet all educational expenses cannot qualify.)

5. Graduate from high school by summer of the year of the award, or have been accepted for admission by an accredited California college.

6. Be a resident of California. Residence is determined in the same manner as at the California State University and Colleges.

7. Be a citizen of the United States or, if not a citizen, be admitted on a permanent resident visa.

8. Have not attained his 30th birthday prior to September 3, 1974. (Except for former U.S. military personnel who have served over 180 days of continuous military service since 1955.)

9. Have not completed more than six semesters or nine quarters (or the equivalent of college work prior to use of the award.)

10. Have a social security number.

11. Comply with all rules and regulatiions adopted by the Scholarship and Loan Commission for the administration and award of scholarships."

NEARLY READY — Bill Cameron, left, manager of the new Western Auto Store at 7702 Broadway in Lemon Grove, goes over remodeling plans with construction supervisor Al Herren as workers prepare for its re-opening next month. The store was formerly Red's Western Auto and Furniture, but will be company owned and operated when it is opened again. Cameron arrived in town last week with his wife, Janny, and daughter, Cindy. Prior to this assignment, he was the manager of the El Centro Western Auto for 3½ years.

Zoological Society Sets Goals

A promise of continuing development at the San Diego Zoo and the San Diego Wild Animal Park — despite rising operating and construction costs—was made by Zoological Society president Lt. Gen. Victor H. Krulak, USMC (ret.) in his annual report to members of the Zoological Society of San Diego.

Krulak reported that the Zoological Society faced increases of 14 to 55 percent in the five major categories of operating expenses. Nevertheless, he said, the past year had brought major improvements, including Cascade Canyon and a Komodo dragon exhibit at the Zoo, and three new animal exhibits, an expanded parking lot and additiional cars for the electric monorail at the Wild Animal Park.

He added that despite spiraling costs, the Society's board of trustees is committed to continuing development at both the Zoo and Wild Animal Park to continue to attract new visitors to the two attractions managed by the Zoological Society.

Krulak also outlined a number of important animal births during the past year, including white rhinos and an Arabian oryx at the Wild Animal Park, and a pigmy chimp, Cretan goats, tiger cubs and an aardvark at the Zoo.

The president's report was part of the Society's 56th annual meeting, a two-day event for Zoological Society members.

The president's report was preceded by a brief business meeting in which trustees Sheldon Campbell, E. Minton Fetter, M.D., Robert J. Sullivan and Milton Wegeforth were re-elected to three-year terms on the Society's 12-man board of trustees; and by the presentation of the Society's conservation medal to Mrs. Margaret Owings of Big Sur, Calif.

Mrs. Owings, founder and president of Friends of the Sea Otter, is best-known for her work in protecting that marine mammal found along California's coast. However, her conservation efforts date back to 1960, when she was instrumental in defeating a proposed measure considered detrimental to California sea lions.

Mrs. Owings has also been active in supporting measures to protect California's mountain lion population. She is a member of the boards of Defenders of Wildlife and the Environmental Defense Fund, and is a former board member of the African Wildlife Leadership Foundation.

The business meeting, conservation medal presentation and president's report were part of two days of activities for the 44,000 members of the Zoological Society. Also on the agenda were free guided bus tours of the Zoo, free admission to the Children's Zoo, free rides on the Skyfari cable lift, and special animal shows in Wegeforth Bowl. A picnic lunch of fried chicken was served from noon to 6 p.m. to members who had made advance reservations for the meal.

SWAP HONORED — Dr. Charles Cochrane, left, accepts a resolution on behalf of the citizens committee for Small Wilderness Area Preserves from Vice Chairman Lou Conde of the San Diego County Board of Supervisors. SWAP has been instrumental in raising funds for the purchase of Wilderness Gardens as a future part site. Wilderness Gardens, once the private estate of Manchester Boddy, a newspaper editor, is located in Pauma Valley.

Cranston Urges Use Of Federal Bikeway Funds

Senator Alan Cranston (D., Calif.) has urged local communities to take advantage of federal funds for the construction of bike paths made available from the new Federal Highway Trust Fund Act signed into law Aug. 13.

The availability of highway trust funds for bicycle path construction was made possible by a bill introduced by Senator Cranston in August of 1971 and reintroduced as S.61 at the beginning of the current Congressional session.

"Because federal funds have never been available to build bicycle paths most people think that such funding is only available on the local level," Cranston said. "Citizens and communities interested in building such paths can and should now seek such funding from their State Highway Commission."

The bicycle section of the Federal Highway Trust Fund bill provides that up to $40 million a year can be used for the construction of bike paths. There is a limitation of $2 million per state for such construction. The bike paths must be adjacent to or built in conjunction with federally aided highways or forest roads.

"One major use for the new federal fund," Cranston said, "will be to build bicycle paths and overpasses that cross interstate highways. At present bicyclists are often forced to go 15 or 20 miles out of their way when they reach a federal highway that has overpasses not suited for bicycle traffic and which lacks special bicycle cross-overs."

'Dialogue in Music' First Concert Series

The music process, its creation and interpretation by the artist, as well as its meaning and relevance to listeners of all ages, is the primary concern of a recistal-lecture series titled "Dialogue in Music" that will open Grossmont College's 1973-74 concert season. Presented by the college's Office of Community Services, the series will feature outstanding musicians who will perform both as soloists and in groups.

The Padorr-Denning Duo featuing flute and guitar, will appear at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m., Friday, in the Fine Arts Recital Hall as the first program of "Dialogue in Music." The due of Laila Padorr, flute and Darryl Denning, guitar, provides a unique listening experience for concert-goers. The versality of interpretation displayed by these two performers combined with the variety of their repertoire, ensure an unforgettable performance.

Miss Padorr, a graduate of Northwestern University, studied at the Julliard School of Music and with Nadia Boulanger at the Ecole D'Art Americaines, Fontainebleau, France. She has performed as a soloist and member of various chamber music groups throughout the west and midwest and France. She is the founder of the Padorr Trio, a prize-winning chamber music group that has performed numerous concerts in the Los Angeles area.

Denning has studied with leading guitar teachers in both the United States and Spain. He has concertized throughout the western United States and has appeared with numerous Southern California chamber groups. His guitar duos have completed successful tours of Europe in 1971 and Mexico in 1971 and 1972. A faculty member at both Occidental College and the University of California at Los Angeles, Denning has appeared on television and radio in Mexico and Spain as well as on Southern California radio stations.

The public is invited to hear the Padorr-Denning Due combine the flute and guitar to create a "new sound." There is no charge for admission.

School Season Open San Diego Ballet

The San Diego Ballet Company School opened its fall season this week with a new business manager/teacher and a greatly expanded schedule of classes, according to Marvin Zigman, chairman of the board of Ballet of San Diego, Inc.

Carlene Carroll is the new business manager / teacher. She was for the past four years administrative assistant to the president of Ballet Theatre Foundation, New York City, which sponsors American Ballet Theatre, American Ballet Theatre School and Ballet Repertory Company.

"Miss Carroll is a fomer dancer who is also an outstanding teacher and administrator and we are pleased to announce that she has chosen to join us as we begin to expand and strengthen our San Diego Ballet Company School," Zigman said.

"Under the artistic leadership of Dame Sonia Arova and Thor Sutowski, the school, at 3255 Fifth ave., will be very busy with a total of 35 classes, seven of them new," Zigman said.

Four Saturday morning classes have been added, three in ballet and a jazz class to be taught by Day Power. The ballet classes will be taught by Dame Sonia and Miss Carroll.

SDG&E Appeals Commission Decision

San Diego Gas & Electric Company has asked the California Public Utilities Commission to reconsider a recent decision that will deprive the company of large volumes of natural gas to which it is entitled by contract.

Walter A. Zitlau, company president, said if the present decision is allowed to stand, it will drive up the cost of gas and electricity for customers and will lead to a deterioration of the environment because the company will have to burn larger quantities of oil to make up for the gas loss. If additional oil is not available, it may lead to power shortages.

The PUC decision was rendered on a complaint filed by the company against its supplier, Southern California Gas Company. SDG&E contended that it was entitled to a set annual amount of gas plus additional volumes for peak winter use. The PUC ruled, however, that the peaking gas should not be in addition to the set volume, but a part of it.

The commission said the major impact of its decision would be whether Southern California Gas Company's power plant customers and regular interruptible customers of SDG&E will have to buy additional quantities of higher cost alternate fuel, if available, to offset SDG&E's peaking gas volumes.

Nonsmokers in Hospitals Often Not Protected

The majority of Americans are nonsmokers. Many nonsmokers are now organizing to protect their rights to a clean indoor environment. But nonsmoking hospital patients —of all people—too often get little protection.

Efforts have been made to eliminate smoking in some hospitals. But in others, even patients with severe respiratory problems are sometimes confined in rooms where other patients and their visitors are allowed to smoke.

Second-hand cigarette smoke affects nonsmokers in much the same way as it affects smokers. It increases the heart beat and blood pressure and raises the level of carbon monoxide in the blood. All people, but especially those who are ill, should be protected from these hazards to their health.

People troubled by this situation — including agencies such as the American Lung Association and its affiliates —are encouraging measures to protect patients. For example, the New York Lung Association, working with other organizations concerned about the hazards of smoking and its effect on others in enclosed spaces, recently issued guidelines to hospitals in New York City to: allow patients to smoke only in private rooms or in rooms shared with other smoking patients; give patients a choice of sharing a room with smokers or nonsmokers; and restrict smoking by visitors and staff to specific areas.

Further, the guidelines prohibit the sale of all cigarettes in hospitals and designate smoking and non-smoking areas in hospital dining rooms and cafeterias.

Storen Heads ABA

NEW YORK—Mike Storen, a builder of champions during his influential six years in the American Basketball Association, has been named new commissioner of the ABA.

The 37-year-old executive was selected by the Board of Trustees to succeed Robert S. Carlson, who is returning to his law practice.

Storen, who put together Indiana's 1969-70 ABA title team as its general manager and vice president and also built Kentucky into a division champion as its president and general manager, comes to his new position extremely well qualified.
